As to the requirements that the Chinese entitled to remain in this country should establish that right by the evidence of one ceditable white witness. Justice Gray said that it was within the power of the legislature to determine the character of evidence that might be received in a case at law and what force should be given to the testinony so offered. Not discussing the wisdom bor the justice of the act in question, which was beyond the province of the judicial branch of the government it remained only to say that the judgment of the circuit court for the southern district of New York in refusing to grant writs of habeas corpus to the several petitioners was affirmed.

Mr. Justice Cray stated that it had been impossible in the brief time elagsing since the hearing of the argument upon the petit ons to prepare in writers.

been imposs ble in the brief time elapsing since the hearing of the argument upon the petit cons to prepare in writing the opinion of the court. It would be filed as soon as it was possible.

At the conclusion of Justice Gray's opinion, Justice Brewer announced that he felt compelled to dissent from the view of the majority of the court. He read his views at some length, declaring in substance that the act of 1892 was unconstitutional and that if it were upheld there was no guarantee that similar treatment night not be accorded to other classes of our popula-

The general impression here, however, is that the Chinese government will take immediate steps for retaliation and that one of the first things tion and that one of the first things will be the withdrawal of the Chinese legation from this city. The Chinese government has been awaiting this decision. Although rumors have been abroad of the appointment of the new minister, no move has been made lately for his arrival here. The lease of the present legation building expires in a few months and no other residence has been secured nor has the present legat. been secured nor has the present lease been renewed. In fact, Senator Stew-ast of Nevada, who owns the building, ast of Nevaca, who owns the building, contemplates occupying it next fall.

That this is a serious mistake many of them will find when it is too late to remedy it. In most instances, after a day spent in the grounds there will be litt! time or strength left for social gayeties and less occusion for elaborate costuming. The ideal outfit for the summer is a dark colored dress of soft serge or camel's hair. A most appropriate material is silk homespun. This is one of the most desirable of new dress fabrics. It is absolutely fadeless, extremely light, exceptionally durable and also cool and becoming. Made with a modified bell skirt, a not very tight fitting waist and loose, comfortable sleeves, it is just what is wanted for an everyday bard service outfit.—New York Ledger.

Severed an Artery. Charley Young, janitor of Holmes block, met with a serious accident yesterday after-

The Engineer reported grades for a mony street.

Young was at work putting in a pane of glass in the door of the Courier office, when it broke, one of the pieces striking his left wrist and severing an artery. The blood gushet forth in torrents and a surgeon was hastily summoned. It required several stitches to draw the severed ends together so that the flow was stopped.

The Engineer reported grades for a mony street.

The Building Committee reconnaged that the roof of the city building be relaid and the valleys repaired; also that a grate be pvt in floor above the city prison; and that a slat door be placed at the entrance to the tower, to prevent boys from running around on the roof. The report was accepted and the Building Committee instructed to proceed with the improvement.

ing the Columbus Grove Affair."

Frank Van Loon has begun to write a history of his life to be published after he is dead. "It will contain the truth, and all the truth, but there won't be no confession, for so far as the Columbus Grove affair is concerned I ain't got no confession to make," he says, "still it will be mighty interesting reading."

Frank is not an adept at literary composition, and his style lacks the elegance of an Edwin Arnold, but by dint of hard work he has managed to pile up quite a little batch of mannscript. He has apparently given up hope of escaping the gallows, for he says that he won't be given a fair chance before the Board of Paraions, for the papers are prejudicing the public by filling up columns to show that he has made a confession of his guilt. "Ip to this time none of these papers beveen able to produce the confession, or the man to whom it was made, still I have to suffer just the same. Now let me say that if I go through the hele my last words will be that they hang the wrong man, and I couldn't die with a lie on my light."

Van Loon's friends will this week ask the Governor to grant a repression of me has held the foregree on the couldn't die with a lie on my light. The scene inside is one of wildest confusion. It looks as if sections of a drug store, a crockery store, a dry goods en store, a crockery store, a try goods shr porium, a grocery, a harness shop and goodness knows what not had been jum-bled together within the four dirty walls. The head of a doll, dust coulted, lies in a box of candles, and a few fee away, stretched beside a row of bottle of cheap perfumery, which the obligin clerk said was "fine, all of it as good as bay rum," is the headless trunk. On the floor on one side is a box filled with paper collars. The neighbor of this assort ment is a box of codfish. Beyond the codfish and on a shelf is a lot of chine comes in an on a site is a both carrier, some of it costly Satsuma ware in vases and oatmeal sets. And there are many dainty Japanese teacups, translucent, prottily painted and as fragile as egg-shells. Next to them in wild confusion he Governor to grant a reprieve until the next regular meeting of the Board of Pardons. If the Governor fails to accede to is a heap of horse blankets.

On all sides there are evidences that bis request, a special meeting of the Board lend color to the allegation that the goods are taken from railroad smashups There are pieces of furniture disabled by It is a singular fact that almost everofficial of the prison thinks that Jo ass, the Clermont county mao, should go through the trap, while in Van Loorie case there seems to be a great diversity of opinion. broken legs, tops, backs and generally in collapse. There are barrels of flour gaping open, boxes of raisins cracked so that their contents are visible, and piled in around this confused mass are boxes of sardines, bars of soap, underclothing, boots and shoes, bedticking, stacks of trousers, cookies and frosted cakes in The Committee That Will Have boxes, and at one end of the store con-venient to the street odors is a crock of The G.
